All personal information (such as your surname, first name and email address) which you provide via this website, is stored in the files of BbyB, St Amandstraat 39, 8000 Bruges. This data can be processed in the context of the administration of our services, for market research and for the launch of personalised information and promotional campaigns about our products and services.

If you do not wish to receive such information, please inform us via e-mail or post. You may modify or delete your personal details at any time.

Your email address will only be used for the dissemination of information about our products, services and promotions if you have given your explicit approval and have passed your details on to us. These details will not be passed on to a third party.

If you do not wish this information to be used in the context of the BbyB brand, then please inform us of this by email or post. We will not store your data for any longer than is prescribed by law and in any event no longer than necessary for the aforementioned objectives.

We will take all reasonable measures to protect your details from theft, loss, use or unlawful access by third parties.

This website uses cookies. These are small files which are sent via the server on which the website is hosted to the hard drive of your computer when you visit the website. The code contained in the cookies enables your computer to be recognised on a subsequent visit and navigation on the website is speeded up. Your language preference is stored in these cookies, so that on a subsequent visit the website automatically appears in the language you have selected. The cookies do not contain any identifiable personal details. As a consequence no-one can be identified by these cookies. If you wish to, you can set up your browser so that no cookies are stored.

BbyB stores information about the connection which you set up with our website and about the software which you use for this purpose. This information concerns notably your IP address, the duration of the visit, the type of browser that you use and the pages visited. This information is kept for a year. It is used to draw up anonymous statistics and to improve the quality of our website and services based on an analysis of your use. This information may be passed on to the competent judicial bodies if so requested or if required in the context of the obligation to report all illegal content to the public prosecutor.
